

COMPUTER LABORATORY GUIDELINES

1. ACADEMIC USE ONLY

Computer units in the laboratory are strictly for academic, instructional, and research purposes only.

2. DO NOT DISCONNECT CABLES

Do not disconnect or remove any cables from the computer units to connect personal devices such as laptops, switches, or other equipment.

3. DO NOT DISMANTLE EQUIPMENT

Do not dismantle, open, or modify any laboratory equipment in an attempt to troubleshoot or repair issues.

4. NO GAMES

Playing any kind of games on laboratory computers is strictly prohibited.

5. AUTHORIZED SOFTWARE ONLY

Only software owned by or properly licensed to National University shall be installed on laboratory computers.

6. NO SOFTWARE INSTALLATION

Lab users are strictly prohibited from installing or downloading software on any computer unit in the laboratory.

7. SAVE FILES AT YOUR OWN RISK

Lab users may save files to the D:\ drive at their own risk. ITSO is not responsible for files that are lost, stolen, deleted, or otherwise become inaccessible.

COMPUTER LABORATORY GUIDELINES

8. NO SYSTEM MODIFICATIONS

Modifying desktop wallpapers, system settings, or any computer configuration is strictly prohibited.

9. NO SECURITY VIOLATIONS

Attempts to compromise system security, including guessing passwords or using hacking tools/software, are strictly prohibited and may result in disciplinary action.

10. NO HARASSING OR OFFENSIVE CONTENT

Sending or sharing harassing, threatening, or offensive messages, pictures, or files is strictly prohibited.

11. NO PORNOGRAPHIC OR EXPLICIT CONTENT

Accessing pornographic materials or sexually explicit websites using laboratory computers is strictly prohibited.

WHAT TO DO IN CASE OF INCIDENTS?

1. COMPUTER MALFUNCTION

If any computer unit malfunctions, lab users should not attempt to repair it. Please inform IT Staff immediately.

2. SUSPICIOUS ACTIVITY

If you notice unauthorized access or suspicious activity on any computer unit, report it to the IT Staff at once.

3. LIQUID SPILLS

If liquid is accidentally spilled near or on computer equipment, stop using the workstation and inform the IT Staff.

4. DAMAGED EQUIPMENT

Report any missing, damaged, or improperly functioning peripherals such as keyboards, mice, monitors, or cables.

5. INAPPROPRIATE CONTENT

If inappropriate content or messages appear on the screen, discontinue use and report the incident immediately.